

PAPERS

Papers are critical to the artistic endeavor. We strive to offer a wide variety of papers that will appeal to the individual needs and desires of our customers. Today's artist is far more sophisticated when it comes to papers than ever before. Unfortunately, many good papers are no longer available. The good news is that there are far more papers, sizes, colors, weights available.

No paper is perfect for every application. We have tried to choose stock papers which are suitable for the majority of processes. If you have a particular sheet which works for you, and it isn't listed (or size and color) please call and we will order it for you. In some cases, we will have to special order the paper which requires the purchase of a full package. Package sizes range from 10 to 100 sheets.

In choosing a paper, the pH factor, the weight of the paper, sizing, deckled edges, presence of watermarks, color and gram weight will all be important not to mention pricing and availability. We cater to the Printmaker, but many of our papers are used for watercolor, drawing, pen and ink, pastels and restoration work.

It is important to note in reviewing papers that if properly prepared, any fiber may be made pH neutral (acid free). It is this quality that greatly impacts the archival quality of a paper. Papers made by hand, use a mould covered by a flat, rigid screen (Western papers), or a flexible screen (Oriental papers). In either style of paper, the mould is covered by a flat frame, or a deckle, to contain the run-off of wet pulp. The wet mat of fibers left on the mould is the formed sheet which is dried against felt blankets and either hot pressed, cold pressed or air dried.

Machine papers are produced on a rapidly running Fourdrinier machine. This produces consistent quantities of either sheets or rolls. A mouldmade paper, on the other hand, is produced on a slowly rotating machine that simulates the handmade process. Fibers are more randomly intertwined than in machinemade papers. This produces a sheet that is stronger and more flexible.

DIGITAL PRINT PAPERS

The newest addition to the Graphic Chemical & Ink paper line is digital papers. These papers are designed for use with inkjet printers of all types. The sheets that we have chosen are from the same mills as many of our standard printmaking sheets, giving you quality, familiarity, and service beyond comparison. Many other digital papers are available, so if you don't see your size, color or style, call us.
